Mr. Oogie Boogie retired!

On October 1st (with Halloween coming) a new retirement was announced: Mr. Oogie Boogie from Tim Burton's The Nightmare Before Christmas is no longer being produced from this day.

Oogie Boogie (by the hand of master sculptor Patrick Romandy-Simmons) was released in 2003.

WDCC Gossip: Sebastian and the chef?

The newest Sketches showed us a remarkable picture. On this picture Doug Hild and Patrick Romandy-Simmons are creating a new figurine and there is little left over for speculation: the small Sebastian from Disney's The Little Mermaid is clearly recognized in the hands of the overactive and obsessed chef Louis.

The photo shows the figurine in one of its first production stages, so it will be the question whether we see it next year or not, but we will keep you informed through our forum, the newsletter and the releases-page!

Wallpapers and Screensavers

On the downloads-page of the Get and Collect website you can find a lot of wallpapers and screensavers with Walt Disney Classics Collection figurines, but did you know you can make a request for a "custom-made" wallpaper or screensaver?

Send us an e-mail (info@getandcollect.nl) and let us know which figurine or figurines you would like to see on a wallpaper or screensaver. We will review the request and, when possible, create the wallpaper or screensaver.

Prices rise and rise

Recently there were some remarkable changes in the prices on the Secondary Market. The sculpture of Peter Pan "Hooray for Captain Pan", which was only available for guests attending the 2003 Disneyana Convention "Adventure on the High Seas", was being sold on Ebay for over $1400,- (over €1150,-).

The figurine of Belle and the Beast in the snow ("She Didn't Shudder at my Paw") was being sold three times for over $1300,- (over €1075,-) on the well-known auction site and the limited edition version of the Big Bad Wolf ("Who's afraid of the Big Bad Wolf") did $950,- (about €790,-).

We'll find these rises at the dealers as well, but we also see prices decrease at the dealers. In particular the open edition figurines have become less expensive because of the Euro-Dollar conversion rates.

Very soon we will update the figurine-pages with their current store price.
